"THE HUSKING."

BY J. G. WHITTIER.

It was the pleasant harvest time,
When cedar bluffs are closely mowed,
And garrets bend beneath their load,

And the old swallow-haunted barns,—
Brown-gabled, long, and full of seams
Through which the mounted sun-gilt streams,

And winds blow freshly in to shake
The red plumes of the roosted cocks,
And the loose hay-mows' scented locks

Are filled with Summer's ripened stores,
Its odorous grass and barley sheaves,
From their low scaffold to their eaves.

On East Harden's oaken floor,
With many an Autumn's threshing worn,
Lay the heaped ears of unhusked corn.

And thither came young men and maids,
Beneath a moon that, large and low,
Lit that sweet eve of long ago.

They took their places; some by chance,
And others by a merry voice
Or sweet look guided to their choice.

How pleasantly the rising moon,
Between the shadows of the mows,
Looked on them through the great elm boughs!

On sturdy boyhood, sun-embrowned,
On girlhood, with its solid curves
Of healthful strength and painless nerves!

And jests went round, and laughs that made
The house-dog answer with his howl,
And keep awake the barn-yard fowl;

And quaint old songs their fathers sung
In Derby dales and Yorkshire moors,
Ere Norman William trod their shores.

An tales, whose merry license shook
The fat sides of the Saxon thane,
Forgetful of the lovering Dane—

Rude plays to Celt and Cimbri known,
The charms and riddles that beguiled
On Oxus' banks the young world's child—

That primal picture-speech wherein
Have youth and maid the story told
So new in each, so dateless old.

Recalling partoral Ruth in her
Who waited blushing and demure,
The red ear's kiss of forfeiture.

A Noble Revenge.

The coffin was a plain one—a poor, miserable, pine coffin. No flowers on the top; no lining of white satin for the pale brow; no smooth ribbons about the coarse shroud. The brown hair was laid decently back, but there was no crimped cap with neat tie beneath the chin. The sufferer of cruel poverty smiled in her sleep; she had found bread, rest and health.

"I want to see my mother," sobbed a poor little child, as the undertaker screwed down the top.

"You cannot; get out of the way, boy; why don't some one take the brat?"

"Only let me see her one minute!" cried the helpless orphan, clutching at the side of the charity box, as he gazed upon the coffin, agonized tears streaming down the cheeks on which no childish bloom ever lingered. Oh! it was painful to hear him cry the words: "Only once; let me see mother, only once!"

Quickly and brutally the heartless monster struck the boy away, so that he reeled with the blow. For a moment the boy stood panting with grief and rage—his blue eyes distended, his lips sprung apart; fire glistened through his eyes as he raised his little arm with a most unchildish laugh, and screamed:

"When I'm a man, I'll be revenged for that!"

There was a coffin and a heap of earth between the mother and the poor forsaken child—a monument much stronger than granite built in the boy's heart the memory of the heartless deed.

* * * * * * *

The Court House was crowded to suffocation.

"Does any one appear as this man's counsel?" asked the judge.

There was a silence when he had finished, until, with lips tightly pressed together, a look of strange intelligence blended with a haughty reserve upon his handsome features, a young man stepped forward with a firm tread and kindly eye to plead for the friendless one. He was a stranger, but at the first sentence there was silence. The splendor of his genius entranced—convinced.

The man who could not find a friend was acquitted.

"May God bless you, sir; I cannot!" he exclaimed.

"I want no thanks," replied the stranger.

"I—I—I believe you are unknown to me."

"Sir, I will refresh your memory. Twenty years ago this day you struck a broken-hearted little boy away from his dead mother's coffin. I was that boy.

"Have you rescued me, then, to take my life?"

"No, I have a sweeter revenge. I have saved the life of a man whose brutal conduct has rankled in my breast for the last twenty years. Go, then, and remember the tears of a friendless child."

The man bowed his head in shame, and went from the presence of magnanimity, as grand to him as it was incomprehensible.

What Made Him Mad.

Yesterday afternoon Gilhooly sauntered up to a fruit-stand, and, after examining some of the fruit, asked the Major General in command if he believed in the Bible.

"I do," was the reply; "I have been a member of the Baptist Church for twenty-five years."

"If you believe in the Bible, then I suppose you admit that men are judged by their fruits, and that by their fruits ye shall know them," and, picking up a orange, Gilhooly showed him where there was a decayed spot as big as a dollar on it. The kick that good man discharged at Gilhooly shook the awning five feet above it.

Hahnemann, the founder of the homœopathy school, was one day consulted by a wealthy English Earl. The Doctor listened patiently to the patient. He took a small phial, opened it, and held it under his Lordship's nose. "Smell! Well, you are cured." "How much do I owe you?" said the Earl in surprise. "A thousand francs," was the reply. The Earl immediately pulled out a check-book, and held it under the Doctor's nose. "Smell!" he cried, and then added, "Well, you are paid."

An Emperor's Joke.

In the published memoirs of Karatygin, the famous Russian actor, will be found the following characteristic anecdote of the late Emperor Nicholas. His Majesty happened one day to be engaged in inspecting a state penitentiary in one of the provincial seats of government, and took it into his head to question some of the convicts respecting the nature of the offenses for which they were suffering punishment. "What are you here for?" he asked of one. "I am innocent, Imperial Majesty," replied the prisoner, falling on his knees, "a victim of false witnesses! A church was robbed—a beadle knocked on the head—the peasants caught hold of me and I knew nothing about it." Turning to another, the Czar asked, "And you?" "False witness again, Imperial Majesty. A peddler was done for close to my house. I never even dreamed of such a thing." "And you?" said Nicholas to a third. "Sheer malice, Sire. One of my neighbors conveyed a lot of forged notes into my pockets, and hid away a lithographic stone in my bedroom. I am as innocent as an unborn babe." The Emperor, obviously bored by these successive protestations of guiltlessness, cast a glance along the line of prisoners until his eye fell upon a ragged, wretched-looking gypsy, whom he beckoned forward with the words, "Of course you, too, are here on a false charge?" "Not a bit of it, your Majesty," replied the Tsigan; "it is all fair and square as far as I am concerned. I stole a pony from a tradesman." "Stole a pony, did you?" said the Czar, with a laugh, and then, addressing the Governor of the prison with well-assumed sternness, "Turn that good-for-nothing rascal instantly out of doors. I cannot allow him to remain a minute longer in such honorable and virtuous company, lest he pervert all these good, innocent people."

How to Hang Thermometers.

There seem to be so many erroneous notions among the many amateur meteorologists of the city about the minimum temperature of the twenty-four hours, and how to obtain it correctly, says a correspondent of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, that a few lines from an "old weathercock," I trust, will not be altogether lost. In the first place, then, the temperature of the wall of any building at any hour of the night or day is not the true temperature of the circulating air, and is of no use to science. A wood wall will radiate its heat more rapidly than a brick or stone, and the amateur scientist who hangs his thermometer on a wood wall can force his mercury down below the amateur who selects a brick wall. The proper way to expose your thermometer is to surround it with a light wood frame, covered with slats, like shutter work, and roofed over. This will protect it from the direct rays of the sun and reflected heat. Run a light wood bar across the center of your shelter, to which you can attach the thermometer, which should be, when properly exposed, on the north side of the building, and at least one foot from all surrounding objects. If these directions are followed, erroneous reports of extreme cold weather will not find their way into print so often. It is not a very funny thing for the press to report 25 deg. below zero, when 15 deg. represented the true temperature of the circulating air. It gives persons abroad wrong impressions of your climate.

What Saved His Life.

The way to stop the flow of blood from a bad wound has been so often pointed out that it is best illustrated by an actual example. When people injured and bleeding are able to help themselves by so simple a process, they should certainly love their lives well enough to do so.

That Gen. Sickles is alive to-day is due only to his great presence of mind. When he fell on the field of Gettysburg, he fainted. Recovering consciousness, but half dazed, he found he was completely away from the hope of immediate help, and that blood was gushing from his leg in jets, showing that an artery was severed. Painfully raising himself until he found his handkerchief, he tied it around the wound in such a way as to stop the flow, and, in order to secure additional tightness, ran his sword-handle under the handkerchief, and with all his power twisted it around and held it so until the surgeon came on the battle field. Like most persons, he had read directions of what was necessary to be done in such emergencies, but, unlike many persons, he was cool and collected enough to put his reading into practice when the emergency came.

A WOMAN hunted two hours for a needle she dropped on the floor, and couldn't find it, and then her husband came in, and had hardly taken his boots off before he could tell where it was. Queer how men can do things that women can't.

A young lady of New York was married the other day in the wedding gown of her grandmother, made 70 years ago, without alteration, and so similar were the styles that no one knew but it was a new one "made for the occasion."

The famous author Irving's house in New York is exactly as he left it when he died. The pen and papers on his desk remain as they were when he arranged them for the last time.

He had been telling her stories of himself, and had done a great amount of bragging; when he had finished, she kissed him and murmured: "This is a kiss for a blow."

In New York society the good old name of Mary Ann has been changed to Maryantha, and that of Amy to Amarantha. Sallyantha is also very pretty.

An Illinois girl has bought a city omnibus line. She can have a 'bus as often as she pleases.

Don't Cross a Bridge Until You Come to It.

There was once a man and woman who planned to go and spend a day at a friend's house, which was some miles distant from their own. So one pleasant morning they started out to make the visit, but they had not gone far before the woman remembered a bridge they had to cross which was very old and was said not to be safe, and she immediately began to worry about it.

"What shall we do about that bridge?" she said to her husband. "I shall never dare to go over it, and we can't get across the river in any other way."

"Oh," said the man, "I forgot that bridge! It is a bad place; suppose it should break through, and we should fall into the water and be drowned?"

"Or even," said his wife, "suppose you should step on a rotten plank and break your leg, what would become of me and of the baby?"

"I don't know," said the man, "what would become of any of us, for I couldn't work, and we should all starve to death."

So they went on worrying and worrying, till they got to the bridge; when, lo and behold! they saw that since they had been there last a new bridge had been built, and they crossed over it in safety, and found that they might have saved themselves all their anxiety. Now that is just what the proverb means: never waste your worrying on what you think may possibly be going to happen; don't think, "Oh, suppose it should rain to-morrow so that I can't go out!" or, "What should I do if I should have a headache on the day of the party?" Half the time the troubles we look for do not come; and it is never worth while to waste the hours in worrying.

Privately-Illustrated Works.

An elegant pastime of rich New Yorkers is to privately illustrate fine books with choice engravings, and an enormous amount of money is spent in this way. Robert Hoe, Jr., has a noteworthy collection of privately illustrated works, numbering over 1,000 volumes, which are valued at nearly $300,000. He has a quantity of books so elegantly bound that the binding alone cost from $25 to $300 a volume. The text of his most expensive volumes is printed on heavy India paper with broad margins, with rough edges except on top, where the leaves are gilt-edged, to keep off the dust. To privately illustrate a book a collection of engravings is at first necessary. They must be of a wide range of subjects, including historical scenes, pictures of landscapes, interiors, famous buildings and portraits of famous men and women. The illustrator carefully studies the work he designs to illustrate, keeping in his mind the picture he has. Where they serve he places them. Where the text admits of an illustration he does not possess, he must hunt the print stores over for one, and not rest until he finds it. Artists' proofs are usually sought for, and, as the work of private illustration is usually carried on regardless of expense, their increased cost is not a consideration. If an engraving is too small, it is inlaid in thick paper by a neat process in which the edges of the picture and of the paper are beveled, that they may be glued so as to be almost invisible. Mr. Hoe has a set of "Allison's History of Europe," illustrated by himself, with over 1,300 engravings, all of which are artists' proofs. He has an Izaak Walton, also profusely illustrated at great cost.

Put Yourself in His Place.

In an admirable address on Sunday-school teaching, Dr. Eggleston gave this forcible illustration of the value of personal sympathy with children in every effort to gain a hold on and lead them:

"A half-witted fellow—or a 'natural,' as the Scotch would call him—found a missing horse, when all search for him had failed, and a liberal reward had been offered for his recovery. On his bringing back the horse to its owner, the question was asked of the simple-minded fellow:

"'Why, Sam, how came you to find the horse, when no one else could?'

"'Wall, I jest 'quired where the horse was seen last, and then I went there, and sat on a rock, and I just axed mysel', if I was a horse, where I would go, and what would I do? And then I went and found him.'

"Sam putting himself in the horse's place, in the simplicity of his feeble mind, is enabled to go to the horse and lead him back to the right place. It would be well if every Sunday-school teacher, before sitting down to a class of children, would ask himself after Sam's sort: 'If I was a boy, how would I feel, and what would I want?' He would thus be far more likely to get hold on those boys, and bring them along with him wherever he pleases to go."—Kind Words.

An Eastern editor says that a man in New York got himself into trouble by having two wives. A Western editor replies by assuring this contemporary that a good many men in that section have done the very same thing by marrying only one. A Northerner retorts that quite a number of his acquaintances found trouble enough by merely promising to marry without going any further. A Southern editor says that a friend of his was bothered enough by simply being found in company with another man's wife.

It is remarkable what little bites a woman takes when eating in the presence of her sweetheart. What a little mouth she has then! She nibbles with her little white teeth like some dainty squirrel eating a hickory nut. But wait until washday comes. Watch her when she goes to hang up clothes and gets in a hurry. By the time she gets the big ends of fifteen clothes pins hid in that mouth you will begin to think that it is a pretty good sized, hearty mouth after all.

The word good-bye means God be with you.

Too Much Red Tape.

The Supreme Court, after announcing its decision in the San Francisco election case, amended it and named the officers to be elected in that city next September. Why did it not still further amend it, and decide as to the legality of holding a general State election next Fall? Every member of that Court knew that it was important that the matter of a general election should be settled, and that the people expected a full and clear decision in that regard in connection with the San Francisco case, but they ignored all that, pulled tight their red tape, and left everybody outside of San Francisco in the dark. If the vexed question is to be settled this year a new case will have to be trumped up to get the matter before the Court in proper shape, and then we might not get a decision until after the time set for an election.

Near Santa Barbara, during a recent hunt, a bear cub was shot. The hunters left the spot, but returned in half an hour and found the mother apparently engaged in licking and caressing the head of the defunct cub. They shot her, and found that she had staunched the flow of blood with finely-chewed grass.

The French citizens of San Francisco are to celebrate the Fall of the Bastile on the 14th of July in grand style. They invite all nationalities to participate; "in order that the day may be marked by the splendor which befits the grand fete of France—the grand fete of liberty."

Wm. E. Goodyear, who died in East Haven, Conn., on the 17th, at the age of 50 years, rode on horseback from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 1852. He was connected with the Government survey between California and Mexico.

In May, 30 vessels belonging to, or bound to or from ports in the United States, were reported totally lost or missing, involving a loss, exclusive of cargo, of $1,239,000. The list comprises 5 steamers, 4 ships, 14 barks, 1 brig and 7 schooners.

Articles of incorporation for the Salt Lake and Western Railroad have been filed at Carson. The road will run to San Francisco, to compete with the Central Pacific. It is said that Jay Gould and Dillon are its backers.

The Prince of Wales applauded the Yankee horse that won the Derby, and dined Edwin Booth, the actor, all during the same day. Noble, noble man! Let's all stand back and shout!

The Chinese merchants of Marysville have issued posters declaring that any white person who enters a Chinese house for the purpose of smoking opium will be arrested and prosecuted. That is sensible

John H. Maynard, of San Francisco, on his way to Europe with his wife, was arrested at Ann Arbor, Mich., on Saturday last, for obtaining a signature to a $2,000 note, under false pretenses in 1876.

An earthquake at Ottawa on Monday last scared the Canadians, who thought the world was coming to an end according to the prophecy.

Honey Lake, Lassen county, is 20 miles long and 16 wide, but not more than ten deep. It is full of fish, but there is not a boat of any description on the lake.

It is said that Mrs. Conkling desires her husband should retire to private life. The people have the same desires, and it is to be hoped all will be gratified.

Grant will make a permanent home in New York, with Long Branch as a Summer side show. If he will keep out of politics he will do well yet in this country.

It has been discovered that 120,000 bushels of grain have been stolen from the elevator at Keokuk, Iowa, and cannot be traced. This is next to stealing a hot stove.

Emancipation Day was enthusiastically celebrated by the colored folks at Galveston and throughout Texas.

OUR GOVERNMENT HOODLUMS.

The War Department says we have too many West Point Cadets more than the country has any use for, or knows what to do with. Of late years the people of these United States have not looked upon that institution with that favor and pride of country with which it was regarded in the early days of the Republic. The hazing outrages indulged in by those wards of the Government who are being educated at the expense of the common people; and particularly the Whitaker outrage, have been a disgrace to the institution and the Government, which should have nipped such practices in the bud, and not have allowed them to mature. The Whittaker outrage has cost the people over a hundred thousand dollars—a costly amusement to be indulged in by a school of young hoodlums at the expense of the Government, and one that will not bear a repetition.

Now that the supply of these ornamental appendages to our government is far greater than the demand, Congress should reduce the quota of pupils allowed the several States and make the membership of the Academy as limited as possible. Instead of filling that school with the spoiled and hoodlum sons of wealthy men, preference should be shown to the poor orphan boy, who is more entitled to the guardianship of our Government than the rich man's son—a class that has heretofore reaped those benefits. It is to be hoped that we will hereafter have but little use for West Point graduates, and the expenses of carrying on that institution should be reduced as low as possible; and the time will come when the Academy will be discontinued, and West Point be made a grand National Park, and the sooner the better.

South America does not seem to be an extremely "healthy" part of our little globe for newspaper men. We have been trying to think of some good place for our Mono friends, Brothers Harris, Hoole and Barnes, to start papers, but we cannot advise them to try Montevideo, as a decree of the Government forbids newspapers to discuss politics or create obstacles for the Government, under a penalty of $5,000. Two papers have suspended, and a number of journalists are hiding from the authorities. The living journals avoid politics. Three newspaper offices have been attacked, and one compositor killed and three wounded. That is no good place for our friends; Harris would have no mining companies to "go for," and Hoole and Barnes would each attack the "Administration," if it was not "Democratic"—and they couldn't stand many $5,000 fines. No, Montevideo is not much better than Bodie for newspaper profits.

STILL ANOTHER VERSION.—The New York Churchman says we are to have still another version of the New Testament, to be known as the "American Version," and, what is more, it is to be copyrighted under that designation. As to the particular reasons for its publication, the Churchman says: The fact that the readings and renderings proposed by the American Committee of revision have been published in a separate list, such of them at least, as were not adopted by the English revisors, has vexed the minds of some people, who cannot bear that anything American should be made to take a back seat, and of certain others who are not willing to acknowledge that there can be any appeal from the judgment of the American Committee.

We may as well "go the whole hog," while we are about it. We have shown the Britisher the heels of our American horses, and we might as well show him that we are as able to get up an American New Testament as to beat in a horse race.

The personal property assessment roll of San Francisco this year is $33,292,490 below that of last year. That is an immense decrease, and does not speak well for the Bay City.

THE UNION.

BRIDGEPORT, JUNE 25, 1881.

JOB PRINTING.—Job printing of the finest description will be furnished at this office at Sacramento prices.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE BUGOLOGIST.—Bugologists will find Bridgeport and the Big Meadows a lovely Paradise just now in which to pursue their vocation. Here they will find everything, almost, that was ever thought of in the bug or fly line; and our house flies are perfectly splendid—for worrying the life out of man and beast. They are about the size of black birds—may be a trifle smaller—and when one plants itself on the top of your head one is inclined to think it is boring post holes, and at the same moment others are after the wax in your ears, while others are examining your eyes as to your sight; and while these are all busy others are prospecting the nose to see if you are troubled with the catarrh; and there are always two or three ready to waltz into your mouth to see if your store teeth are holding out well; and while these pleasing marks of familiarity are being showered upon you, three or four dive from the rim of your shirt collar down your back to hunt a strawberry mark by which they may know you next year—and this is the daily experience of the Bridgeporter, from sunrise till sunset—for as soon as the sun disappears our tormentors disappear. To save their animals from being devoured alive our teamsters are compelled to encase their horses in linen hoods and cloaks. It looks odd, but humane. If the bug-scientists will come here, we will guarantee they will be satisfied with the outlook.

CERTIFICATES WON.—The Board of Education concluded its business on Wednesday by awarding second-grade certificates to Miss Suttonfield, of Antelope Valley, and Misses Armstrong and Schwartz, of Bodie. No first-grade certificates were asked for, and in this we think the young ladies—for who ever knew a schoolmarm that was not young and handsome—were sensible, for if we were young and handsome, as we were a short time ago, and a young lady, withal, we would do something desperate—even marry an editor, before we would put our brains on the rack in the end vain to answer the questions concocted and put in shape by the State Board of Education to air the learning of its members; questions that are never thought of in social or business relations of life; but if the applicant for a school is not able to answer about ninety per cent. of such questions, a certificate is refused, and refused, perhaps, to those who know a minute more than their examiners, or the State Board, would in a month of Sundays. It is time the State Board came down to matter of fact questions that pertain to our everyday social and business relations.

GOOD SELECTIONS.—The Bodie Fourth of July Committees have always made very excellent selections in the matter of orators, etc., and this year is no exception. Two years ago Hon. R. M. Briggs delivered the oration on the Fourth, and an eloquent, patriotic production it was, too; but delivered under circumstances calculated to make it just the reverse, for it was delivered out of doors, a heavy gale sending the alkali dust in clouds through the streets, the speaker swallowing the traditional "peck" at every utterance. Last year General Kittell delivered the oration, which was listened to with close attention, as it deserved to be, but the speaker and his audience were chilled to the marrow by the cold winds that sent their wintry blasts through the town. This year Judge Briggs has accepted an invitation to deliver the oration, and for his comfort and that of his hearers, we hope the oration will be delivered before the afternoon winds set in. Judge Briggs is a fluent and eloquent orator, and none should miss hearing him that can possibly get within hearing distance. The selection of Mrs. Selden Hetzel to read the poem was a happy thought, as she is a beautiful elocutionist. We trust the Committee will heed our suggestion, to have their literary exercises through before the afternoon winds spring up.

COMING IN.—Fruit wagons are coming in from Sonora in quantities to suit—those who are somewhat impecunious, for the more wagons, the more fruit, and the more will one get for a quarter, which are beginning to be held as securely as gold "slugs" were in '51. The variety and quality of the fruit now coming in would not carry off many medals at the State Fair, but we live in hope of the sweet bye and bye bringing us a better article.

NEW LAW FIRM.—Those well known Bodie attorneys, Hon. P. Reddy and Paul W. Bennett, have formed the law firm of Bennett & Reddy, as will be seen by their card under "New To-day." We "concur" in the opinion of the Free Press, that "it is a strong team" Mr. Reddy, we believe, will attend to the business of the firm in San Francisco, while Judge Bennett will look after the interests of their clients here.

ROAD TO YOSEMITE.—The Yosemite Valley Commissioners have under consideration a proposition to open a road from the Yosemite Valley to Mill Creek, to connect this section with California's famous valley. It is to be hoped the Commissioners will see that the proposed route is speedily opened, as it would enable our people to visit Yosemite at a trifling expense.

A VACATION.—After calling the Calendar on the 6th of July, Judge Wiggin will take a short vacation, and visit the Yosemite Valley.

ANOTHER VISITOR.—We no more than get through with one heavenly exhibit before another is presented to our view. We have had Jupiter and his moons; Venus in all her brilliancy, with Saturn and Jupiter in company; we have had a morning exhibition of Venus, Saturn and its rings, and the warrior Mars; we have had a total eclipse of the Moon; the conjunction of the planets; and now we have the rare sight of Mercury following the Sun and setting in about an hour after that luminary goes down; it is not very brilliant, and takes good eyes to see it: and now comes, very unexpectedly, a full-fledged Comet with a Japanese fan tail. It made its first appearance a few mornings since, in the northern heavens, and at 3:30 this morning it was a few feet north of being directly over the UNION Office. It does not require extra strong eyes to find the unlooked-for visitor, but they must be opened early in the morning.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday afternoon, a portion of the grade on the Sonora road slid off about a mile and a half above Leavitt's Station, carrying with it a four-horse fruit wagon coming this way. The wagon turned completely over twice, carrying the driver, a young man named Moore, through the entire racket. A passenger saved himself by jumping off, but Moore was badly hurt, but not seriously; so thinks Dr. Sinclair, of this town, who was sent for and left late that night. The Doctor did all he could for the sufferer, who was then sent back to Baker's, and then on to Sonora, where he resides. Two horses were injured, and the wagon completely wrecked; and it is a wonder that Moore was not killed, the wagon going down some five hundred feet.

CAPTURED.—Yesterday afternoon Deputy Sheriff George McQuaid, of Tuolumne county, arrived here in pursuit of a young fellow, who was wanted in Modesto for grand larceny. He was known to have passed through this town about a week ago, so our Under Sheriff, J. W. Towle, started for Bodie, soon found the "Bad man from Modesto," and returned to Bridgeport to-day at noon, when he delivered his prisoner to the Tuolumne officer, who left for Modesto, via Sonora, this afternoon. We are of the opinion that rogues had better steer clear of Mono county.

TO APPEAR.—Judge Wiggin in company with B. Pixley, left for Markleeville on Thursday morning, to preside over the Superior Court of Alpine county, in the trial of the Colorado lien case, Judge Arnot being a Director of the Company, therefore disqualified.

TO EQUALIZE.—The Board of Supervisors are required to meet on the first Monday in July as a Board of Equalization, but as that day this year will be the great Fourth, no business will be done until Tuesday, the fifth.

PERSONAL.—Our Senior, "Uncle Bob," left here on Sunday last, for Modesto, on a visit to his wife, with whom he expects to return. While absent he will post himself regarding the cultivation of mushrooms, his favorite potato.

COURT CALENDAR.—Judge Wiggin, Department No. 2, will call the Calendar of the Superior Court, and set the cases on the General July.

MAGAZINES, ETC.

Our Home Magazine The Californian, comes to us in a new dress, as fair as a young bride in Worth's best, and with a table of contents to please every literary taste—in fact, this Midsummer number is more attractive than ever. It gives us Flight, a sequel to "Toby;" Field Flowers; An Eminent Lawyer; a continuation of '49 and 50; Incompletion, a poem; Fashion in Æsthetics; The King of the Carnival; An Arizona Mining District; So Weary, a poem; a continuation of Mr. Hiram McManus; A Bohemian in an Aztec Castle; In Kansas with John Brown; Sister-in-Law Dorathy; Inspiration, a poem; The Wilds of the Darien; Note Book; Art and Artists; Science and Industry; Post-Prandials, a new department of wit and humor; Outcroppings. Up to September 1st all new subscribers at $4 a year are given an order on a San Francisco publishing house for books to the amount of $1 25. The Californian Publishing Co., 408 California street, San Francisco.

Harper's Monthly for July is one of the best of the year. It is full of illustrations, and the readers of this standard magazine have a rich treat in store for their leisure moments, as will be judged from its Table of Contents: A Neglected Corner of Europe, being an interesting account of Oporto, with illustrations; Old Dutch Masters, illus; A Kiss, a poem; an interesting and instructive paper on the White Mountains, and fully illustrated; Life at Rideau Hall, the home of the Marquis of Lorne at Ottawa, Canada, with illustrations; Anne, a novel; That Faded Braid, a railway phantasy; A Day in Africa, illus.; The Parson's Daughter, a poem; The Bracelet to Julia, a poem; Thos. Blanchard, the Inventor, with portrait; Hawthorne among his Friends; Law and Gospel, a story; First Appearance at the Odeon, a poem; Railroads in Mexico, with a map of Mexico, which is of interest to its California readers; A Bicycle Era, illustrated; "The Music of the Spheres;" A Laodicean; My June Boy, a poem; Easy Chair; Editor's Drawer, etc. Harper & Brothers, New York.

Carpentry and Building, a monthly magazine devoted to the interests of carpenters and builders, is filled with designs, specifications, plans, etc., of buildings, stairways, and other information of practical benefit to workers in wood. The low price of the publication—$1 a year—places it within the reach of every mechanic. D. Williams, 83 Reade street, New York.

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS

Department No. 1—Briggs, J.

Nothing has been done in this Court, excepting the hearing of arguments on a motion for a new trial in the Stewart vs. Taylor case, which was taken under advisement.

Department No. 2—Wiggin, J.
TUESDAY, June 21.

J. M. Miller et al. vs. Miller vs. G. W. Butterfield; trial continued; to be argued in San Francisco.

RUN OVER.—On Thursday, California Jim, a Piute, was thrown or fell from his horse, and run over by an ox team, while coming down from Bodie, drunk. His lower limbs are paralyzed, his spine being injured. He will doubtless soon pass on to the happy hunting grounds.

THE BALL.—The ball given last evening in Wedertz new hall was well attended, and a pleasant re-union of our dancing people. Mrs. Wedertz provided a toothsome supper, and dancing was continued till 4 o'clock this morning.

TRANSFERS.—We have been compelled to omit property transfers this week, but next week we will bring them up to that date.

A. B. Stewart, Druggist, Bodie, has drugs, medicines, paints, oils, ammunition and cartridges.

In others men often condemn what they themselves practice without any scruple.

NOTICE.—As I am selling my stock of goods at cost, for the purpose of leaving Bridgeport, I would request all those indebted to me to call and settle AT ONCE, as I am greatly in need of money.

May 28th, 1881. F. F. HARRADEN.

ADVERTISE IN BRIDGEPORT CHRONICLE.

THE UNION.

BRIDGEPORT, JUNE 25, 1881.

HOUSE AND FARM.

MARRIED PEOPLE WOULD BE HAPPIER.—If home trials were never told to neighbors.

If they kissed and made up after every quarrel,

If household expenses were proportioned to receipts.

If they tried to be as agreeable as in courtship days.

If each would try to be a support and comfort to the other.

If each remembered the other was a human being, not an angel.

If women were as kind to their husbands as they were to their lovers.

If fuel and provisions were laid in during the high tide of Summer work.

If both parties remembered they married for worse as well as for better.

If men were as thoughtful for their wives as they were for their sweethearts.

If there were fewer silks and velvet street costumes and more plain tidy house dresses.

If there were fewer "please-darlings" in public and more common manners in private.

If wives and husbands would take some pleasure as they go along and not degenerate into mere toiling machines. Recreation is necessary to keep the heart in its place, and to get along without it is a big mistake.

BLINDERS FOR HORSES.—These useless appendages to the harness are properly named, inasmuch as they are believed to aid in making horses blind. The Indiana Farmer says:

"We know not who invented this instrument of horse torture, but we know he did not understand the anatomy and physiology of the eye of a horse. Human vision is binocular—that is, we see the same object with both our eyes, and so adjust the axis of vision that the object appears single though seen with two eyes. But the eyes of the horse are placed on the sides of the head, and the axis of each eye is nearly at right angles with the longitudinal line of the body, so that it is impossible that the same object can be distinctly seen by both eyes. Now, by blinding the eye in the direction in which it was intended, in its construction, that it should see, it is forced to use an oblique vision, as if we should cover the front of our optics and be compelled to see only by the corners of our eyes. This unnatural and constrained use of the eye must, to a greater or less extent, impair vision, if not entirely destroy it. The object for which the blind-bridle is used is not accomplished by it. A horse is more readily frightened when he cannot see the object of his dread, than if he has a full view of everything around him.

When taken internally in quantities of about a teaspoonful once a week with food, sulphur, it is said, will keep all kinds of animals free from lice, and promote the general health. One teaspoonful is sufficient for ten or twelve hens, or three or four sheep or pigs. The same quantity of charcoal can be conbined with it with good results.

Flies may be effectually disposed of without the use of poison. Take half a teaspoonful of black pepper in powder, one teaspoonful of brown sugar, and one teaspoonful of cream. Mix them well together and place them on a plate in a room where flies are troublesome, and they will soon disappear.
